

Brite Ideas on How to Minister to the Children of Missionaries

An MK is a missionary kid (or in some countries referred to as a third culture kid) who serves with their family on the mission field.

Adopt a Collegiate MK

When returning to the United States to attend college MKs are faced with transitioning into a new culture – a college campus. You have an opportunity to encourage these MKs. Listed below are a few suggestions for ministering to MKs.

- Take them out to a meal. Sponsor them on a school missions trip.
- Send birthday cards. Give a party. Mail a gift.
- Personally invite an MK to attend your church. Give them information about your church.
- Host a party to introduce an MK to other college students or your church group.
- Provide school supplies, canned food, quarters and laundry items, gift/phone cards, or other items needed by college students.
- Prepare a “snack pack” during exam weeks, a Christmas gift, or just a “happy” that says you care.
- Invite MKs over for a home cooked meal, to wash clothes, watch television or just hang out.
- Pray - Communicate with an MK through cards, email, or phone calls to discover specific prayer requests.
